Park Easter hunt

The annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Granite City Park District will be held Saturday at 9 a.m. for first graders, 9:30 a.m. for kindergartners and 10 a.m. for pre-school children.

It will be held in the Wilson Park ice rink facility, with eggs hidden in straw. Each child is to bring a container to hold the eggs found.

Six prizes will be awarded in each age group.

Easter drama set

Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., will present a dramatic Easter musical, "Living Witnesses," at 7 p.m. Sunday and repeat it at 7 p.m. Monday.

The Rev. Nick Poplichak, minister of music and the drama's director and narrator, said, "This musical celebrates the resurrection unlike any other. Many Easter musicals focus on the cross experience, giving only token expression to the resurrection.

"Certainly, Jesus wants His believers to be moved and changed by the cross, but the central call to Christians is to proclaim that Jesus not only died for lost humanity, but that he also rose again with new life and desires to give others new life in Him."

"Living Witnesses" will be performed by the adult choir and other members of the music ministry of the church. It will be presented in full Biblical attire.

Bob Jones, pastor of the church, said, "Never has a musical so moved or inspired me."

There is no admission charge, and a nursery will be provided for those with small children.

Alternatives sought to insurance hike

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Insurance premiums for Granite City employees may not double May 1 after all.

A joint committee, composed of members of the City Council, union representatives and city administrative staff, will look into the possibility of reducing employee health care benefits as an alternative to a proposal that would nearly double the cost of their health care insurance.

The city's health insurance plan is self-funded. Current city employees' premiums are paid into the fund by the city as a part of their employment benefit package.

But retired city workers who wish to continue on the plan after employment must pay an equivalent out of pocket premium into the fund.

There are currently 57 retired participants or continuants in the plan. They received a letter earlier this month informing them the city is considering the increased premium, effective May 1.

Because of increasing claims and depletion of the fund's cash reserve, City Comptroller K.P. MacTaggart has recommended that the premium for an individual participant increase to $187.69 per month, up from a current contribution of $94.67. Those wishing to have family coverage would be asked to contribute $488 per month under the proposal, up from $246.14.

The only alternative to increased premiums is a reduction in benefits that are mandated by contracts with the various unions representing city employees.

About 25 city employees attended a City Council Insurance Committee meeting Tuesday night, seeking information about the proposed increase.

A majority of those employees in attendance said they would be willing to consider a reduction in benefits, such as a larger co-payment. Currently, the co-payment is 20 percent.

"I think we all realize that something has to be done. But I think the majority of us would be willing to pay a larger deductible," Mary Jo Akeman, an administrative assistant in (See INSURANCE, Page 3A)

City to vacate land for store

By Randy Vaughn

Food For Less is still "on track" and will open in Madison by the end of May, officials said Tuesday night.

The discount food store will move into the 18,000-square-foot vacant Schermer supermarket at 12th Street and Madison Avenue before Memorial Day, store and city officials said at Tuesday's Madison City Council meeting.

Aldermen set a public hearing on vacating city property near the store for 7 p.m. May 4 at Madison City Hall, to be followed by a special council meeting for approval. (See STORE, Page 3A)

Board adopts increased fees for county services

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Orders of protection, which don't cost anything now, will be $40 in Madison County as of June 1.

Eviction notices, currently $31, will cost $112.

These and other fees were increased Wednesday by the Madison County Board. The fees involve services in the office of the county clerk and the sheriff's department. While a few of the fees will increase by only a few dollars, most will double or triple.

The increases were recommended by the board's Finance Committee. Three board members — Harold Byers, D-Highland, Mike Fruth, D-Edwardsville, and Don Garrett, D-Madison — voted against the measures.

"They are unfair to the average citizen in the county," Garrett said. "Justice is not served by those kinds of fees."

Garrett asked that the board's Legislative Committee review the new fee schedule as soon as possible.

The fee hikes follow a county service analysis done by David M. Griffith & Associates, Ltd., Madison County Auditor Fred Bathson said.

Bathson said the measure is expected to generate between $400,000 and $450,000 annually for the county.

The new fees, which will all take effect June 1, are as follows:

Madison County Clerk: certified copy of a marriage, birth or death certificate, $9 (from $7); marriage license, $20 (from $15); register certified own-

Madison County Sheriff: body attachment (civil court appearance order), $40 (from $14); order of protection, $40 (no prior fee); regular civil process, $40 (from $14); warrants, $34 (no prior fee); eviction notices, $112 (from $31); and replevin (recovery of property), $252 (from $118).

In other action, board members tabled a plan by Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus to enter into a lease/purchase agreement for a remittance processing system.

Shimkus said the new equipment could process 2,500 tax bills an hour — a task that currently takes his staff a day and a half.

"We'd be depositing more money quicker, and in larger sums," Shimkus said of the system. "It would also get it out more rapidly to the taxing districts and that is our ultimate goal."

Herschel Beane, R-Godfrey, spoke out against the plan, calling it "a good idea before its time."

One victim in separate DUI accidents

A Granite City man could face up to three years in prison if convicted for driving under the influence of alcohol after his car allegedly struck a pedestrian on Friday, authorities said.

While the accident victim was being transported to the hospital, the ambulance was involved in a collision with a pickup truck, whose driver was then charged with DUI.

James F. Barnstable, 72, of the 2800 block of Denver Street was charged with a felony DUI and leaving the scene of an accident.

It is contended his two-door Coupe DeVille Cadillac struck Derek Hall on West 20th Street about 100 feet west of Jefferson Avenue.

Hall, 31, of the 2700 block of West 20th suffered a broken right leg, three broken fingers, and several scrapes and bruises.

Hall was walking in his neighborhood at about 7 p.m. Friday when he was hit by a vehicle.

Barnstable allegedly left the scene, and police were able to locate his car based on a description from Hall.

The ambulance taking Hall to St. Elizabeth Medical Center collided with a 1979 Ford pickup truck driven by Woodrow A. Cooper at the intersection of 19th Street and Cleveland Boulevard at 7:46 p.m.

Cooper, 51, of the 2200 block of Benton Street was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and failing to yield the right-of-way to an emergency vehicle.

Paramedic/Firefighter Larry LeMaster, who was driving the ambulance, was treated for facial lacerations at SEMC and was released.

Hall is in stable condition at SEMC, officials said.

The front of the city ambulance was damaged in the crash.

Owners 'want to be treated fairly'

By Bob Slate

Owners of property in a block targeted for purchase by Granite City say they are not being dealt with fairly.

Owners of nine parcels of land located in the block bounded by 20th and 21st streets and Madison and Grand avenues say the city is trying to keep them "in the dark" in its negotiations to acquire their property.

The city is attempting to acquire the property, located in its tax increment finance (TIF) district, reportedly to pave the way for a retail development at the site.

Cruse 'not a problem for community' having Eticam in city

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

Granite City mayor Von Dee Cruse said he would welcome the addition of an Eticam plant in the community after what he saw on a three-day trip last week to a similar plant in Fernley, Nev.

Cruse also said he would not be ready to give his full-fledged support to bringing the plant to Granite City until he sees results of a hearing by the Environmental Protection Agency May 29.

"I wouldn't put myself in the position of saying I definitely want to bring it in," Cruse said. "Who knows what might happen?"

Although he said he was impressed with the wide array of safety features, Cruse said, he isn't an expert on hazardous wastes and would rather have the EPA have the final say.

"To be as honest as I can possibly be I feel that there is not a problem for the community," he said. "But I also feel this decision should be made by the EPA. That's why we have an EPA. They're the ones that eventually say if it's an operation."

The Nevada EPA makes four unannounced visits each year, said Byron Bradd, general manager at the Eticam plant in Fernley. The EPA puts many regulations on the business and they are "a pretty tough group," he said.

"We're willing to do whatever we have to, and we're willing to spend whatever we have to in order to be as safe as we can be," Bradd said.

"From what I saw and heard from the people in Fernley, they're happy with having the plant there. They feel it's safe," Cruse said.

"And these people are concerned with what's going on. There's 7,500 people in the town and they had 250 out for a meeting for Nevada Cement. They're obviously concerned."

Granite City director of economic operations Alan Orbals agreed.

"The thing that most impressed me was their frankness. The people of Fernley are (See ETICAM, Page 8A)

•Property

The property owners got together Wednesday night to compare notes.

Harold Cavins, a broker with Century 21 Dove Realty whose wife Marian owns one of the parcels, said the city refuses to deal at "arm's length," has deliberately underestimated the value of the land and has failed to fulfill its obligations regarding eminent domain proceedings.

An "arm's length" transaction is one in which both parties are provided with all pertinent information—neither is "in the dark."

But, according to Cavins and those in attendance at the meeting, Coldwell Banker Star Realtors (the city's broker in the negotiations) will not let the property owners see appraisals of the property during negotiations.

The city hired the appraising firm of Poletti and Associates Inc. to estimate the value of the property.

Economic development director Alan Ortbals confirmed that the city will not provide Poletti's appraisal to the owners.

"But that isn't the only consideration," Ortbals said. He said other property sales in the area, and assessed valuation are also being considered by the city in determining property value.

Further, Cavins said, Poletti appraised the land as residential property, even though it is zoned commercial.

"Under eminent domain, the city is required to appraise the property at its highest and best use. And that property should be appraised as vacant commercial land," Cavins said.

Ortbals said Poletti appraised the property for its highest and best use.

Cavins said comparable property in the area, such as Taco Bell and Jack-in-the-Bone, one block away and the new doctors' building across the street, has been sold for an average of about $12 per square foot. He said those figures, while only a rough estimate, would "blow Poletti's figures out of the water" in a court challenge.

Those commercial additions have also added to the value of

"We have to have a home. We're living on Social Security. We don't want to rob the city. We just want to be treated fairly and have a place to live."

— Shirley Grider
29-year resident

the targeted property, Cavins said.

While zoned commercial, most of the parcels in question are residences.

Finally, all of those in attendance said the city had not yet made a single offer for their property.

An offer of fair market value must be communicated to the property owner in writing prior to taking eminent domain proceedings to litigation, according to a memorandum from Assistant City Attorney Susan Bacon to the City Council's Downtown Committee.

But instead of making an offer to the owners, the city has provided "fill in the blank" contracts to the owners, asking the owners to make an offer to the city.

It is true that the city has not yet made offers to some of the owners, Ortbals said. But, he added, fair offers will be made before litigation begins.

Cavins advised each of the owners to obtain their own appraisal, file for a copy of Poletti's appraisal under the Freedom of Information Act, and retain an attorney to review all documents before signing them.

"The city is trying to take advantage of these people," Cavins said.

One of the owners in attendance said her husband was told by a city department head that they would not own the property 30 days from now, regardless of negotiations.

Shirley Grider, who with her husband Bob, has resided on the block for 30 years, said she just wants to be treated fairly.

"We have to have a home. We're living on Social Security. We don't want to rob the city. We just want to be treated fairly and have a place to live."

Three held on separate felony charges

Three area residents were charged in felony warrants issued Monday by Madison County State's Attorney William Haine at Edwardsville.

Mark A. Breeden, 30, of the 1300 block of Washington Avenue, Madison, was charged with unlawful use of a weapon by a felon. The Madison County Sheriff's Department alleges that Breeden possessed a Savage 12-gauge pump shotgun, a 12-gauge model 55 Marlin bolt-action shotgun and a Springfield bolt-action shotgun in an April 5 incident.

Breeden was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $75,000 bond. According to the warrant, Breeden was convicted of rape and attempted robbery in Madison County in October 1982.

Norman R. Lucas, 27, of Alton was charged with residential burglary. Madison County sheriff's deputies allege that Lucas burglarized a home in the 2700 block of Stratford Lane, Nameoki Township, on April 5. Lucas was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $75,000 bond.

Andre M. Scruggs, 27, of the 600 block of Lincoln Avenue, Venice, was charged with retail theft of over $150 value.

Alton police allege that Scruggs took six pairs of blue jeans from the J.C. Penney store at Alton Square on April 3. Scruggs was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Man arrested near scene of stabbing

A 27-year-old Granite City man was arrested Tuesday on two misdemeanor charges after returning to the house where he is charged with stabbing his estranged wife, numerous times on March 9.

Lyndon C. Smith of the 2000 block of Missouri Avenue was charged with violation of an order of protection and with criminal damage to property after allegedly throwing a brick at 5 a.m. Tuesday through a window of a home in the 2200 Grand Avenue owned by the sister of his estranged wife.

Veronica Smith, the wife of Lyndon Smith, has been residing at the residence since late February, when the couple began having marital problems, according to police reports.

Lyndon Smith was seen sitting in his black Ford pickup truck outside the home before driving away Tuesday. Police stopped him at West 21st Street and Missouri Avenue and made the arrest.

Smith was charged with armed violence after allegedly stabbing his wife six times in the chest on March 9 after the two had an argument at the Grand Avenue residence.

If convicted of armed violence, he could face six to 30 years in prison. The case is still pending, and he was released on bond March 17.

After the stabbing, Smith allegedly took his wife to his home and waited for an extended period before taking her to the hospital, despite her pleas for him to do so.

Smith told police at the time that he took his wife to their house to "clean her up," adding that he could not do that at her sister's house because the sister did not like him.

Store

The city has been asked to vacate 12th Street between Madison and Grand avenues, sidewalks from the edge of the store to the edge of the nearby Schermer Garden Shop on both sides of 12th Street, the alleyway behind both stores, and the side walks on Grand Avenue and Madison Avenue running along the Schermer property.

Assurance was given that the street will remain open to the public and that the alley would be rerouted around a new freezer and dumpster area.

Attorney Victoria Vasilief, representing David R. Schermer and Leo Schermer, owners, had hoped to have the public hearing set for April 17 and complained of "foot dragging."

City attorney Casper Nighohossian said a notice given in late March would have been appropriate for the first petition, for special-use expansion permit from the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Vasilief voiced concern that a hearing delay until May 4 could cause the city to lose $800 per week in potential sales taxes.

"Only the City Council can approve the publication of a notice for a public hearing related to the vacating of property," Nighohossian said.

"It was given the petition to vacate in the middle of the last council meeting two weeks ago," he said.

"I had changes written in it and I did not have time to go through them, so the council referred consideration to the Zoning Board of Appeals (to permit time to study it)."

"Food For Less owner/operator Dave O'Neil said, 'The city has no problem with that.'

"We're still positive we will get it done before Memorial Day," O'Neil said.

"Food-For-Less will operate at plan pays 80 percent of a participant's major medical expenses — 90 percent if the worker utilizes a Health Link preferred provider physician — after an annual $50 deductible. It also pays 100 percent of hospitalization costs.

Claims and administration costs are projected by MacTaggart to deplete the general fund and Sewage Treatment Plant fund by more than $500,000 next year.

About 20 non-union city employees, including the mayor and department heads, also participate in the plan.

12th and Madison as soon as we can resolve this," Mayor John Bellico said.

"It behooves us to take the proper channels in bringing Food For Less to Madison. Their store will be a tremendous asset to our community."

The store has been vacant since Schermer's grocery store closed Aug. 3, 1991. The garden shop remains in operation.

The new food store will be operated by brothers, Dave and Joseph O'Neil of St. Louis. They currently operate five discount stores in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

The Madison operation, their first in Illinois, will be a full-line store featuring all the major brand labels and some private labels. Shoppers will bag their own groceries and take the products out of their original boxes. Customers will be able to order special-cut meats.

The tentative operating hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day.

Keeping students in school

(Guest editorial by the Alton Telegraph)

A bill now pending in the Illinois House of Representatives could force some youngsters to think before they drop out. The new law proposed by Rep. Jay Hoffman of Collinsville would require high-school students under 18 to provide certain limited information before they drop out of school. Currently, youngsters over 16 may drop out of school without parental consent and without even having to provide a reason.

Hoffman's proposal would require potential dropouts to provide schools with a statement of their specific reasons and their "expectations" for the future. They would also be required to provide information about their family's economic status; whether they, themselves, have children; and the signature of a parent or guardian.

Even Hoffman acknowledges that his plan is hardly a cure-all for the dropout problem. But we believe it's worth a try and that it might at least help in identifying trends and developing strategies to plan solutions.

Dropouts remain a major problem in our state's schools. About 35,000 students drop out each year.

Hoffman also acknowledges that, with the state's current dismal financial state, there's no hope for any substantial effort to develop programs to deter dropouts.

But even the meager information that could be gathered by his proposed requirement may help keep some youngsters in school.

Quite frankly, we're appalled at how simple it is now to drop out. A student over 16 need do little more than not show up.

At least under Hoffman's proposal, school counselors would know that parents are aware a child is dropping out. And they might also learn if there are any financial circumstances that, if remedied, would allow a student to remain in school. We're continually talking about the need to improve the educational level of our work force. And people looking for jobs are becoming painfully aware that minimal levels of education just won't suffice.

Hoffman's proposal may seem too little and too late to some, but it does offer action toward solving a problem that should concern all of us.

Finds daytime TV enlightening

(Carol Clarkin's column appears in the Edwardsville Journal.)

My old friend Walter Weeks used to say, "It's not that you can't teach an old dog new tricks — you can't teach an old dog nothin'!" Not so, Walt, not so. This old dog is here to say there's a lot to be learned, on a daily basis, simply by watching a little daytime television. I'm not sure it's worth learning, but it's there.

For years I believed that sunny-hours TV offered nothing but game shows and soap operas, with an occasional news show thrown in, together with a few cartoons for the kiddies.

Hence, I rarely turn the knob till 4:30 p.m., when I regularly watch "Jeopardy." In addition to my admiration of the handsome Alex Trebek, I can relate to a guy who still uses the word "doozy." Oh, sure, I know the show — Phil and Oprah, Geraldo and Sally Jessy. I just figured they could all be lumped together, that they weren't my cup of tea.

Actually, I still believe that, but... Not long ago, while I was sharing the cocktail hour with some acquaintances at a local watering hole, the bartender switched the TV to Channel 5, about 15 minutes in advance of "Jeopardy," where we caught the last segment of "Inside Edition."

On the screen was one of the prettiest brides I'd seen in a long time — young, blonde and radiant in pristine satin and lace, lovely face framed by a veil which she could remember her name, though it's not important — I'd never seen her before and probably won't again.

What was important is that this vision of loveliness goin' to the chapel, gonna get married, was a luminary in what seemed to me to be an unlikely field of endeavor — she was a star in pornographic movies. No wonder I didn't know her, huh?

Barely in her 20s, she'd been earning in the millions, so she's got to be pretty good at what she does. Said to say, she's in trouble in her chosen field — and so are the guys who produce the films in which she stars.

As it was explained, this is a lass who's always known what she wanted as a career. From the ripe old age of 13 (which would place her in junior high at the time), she's wanted to be a movie star.

Never mind what kind of movies, but I don't think she had Shirley Temple in mind. Apparently well-developed enough at 16 to get away with it, she reportedly passed herself off as over 18 and began starring in dirty movies.

This is a job that off limits for those of her tender years, hence the problems she and the producers now face.

So many questions come to mind. How does a 16-year-old learn when and where casting for the films is scheduled? Did the producers check what had to be a fake I.D.? Did she apply for a Social Security card?

On the TV program, she innocently proclaimed that she didn't know, at the time she took the job, that it was illegal. Her directors and producers said only that she looked old enough and was an enthusiastic performer, a fine little trouper, good actress, liked her work.

Did she drop out of school or was this just another extracurricular activity? How about her Mom and Dad? Did they know what she spent her spare time doing, or did they just assume that there were a lot of big tipsters at the Golden Arches? Or did they even care? They had to know baby-sitters don't make that kind of dough.

Did she file an income tax return or is her fair fanny in deep trouble with the IRS, too? Stagers the imagination, doesn't it?

And the new husband — how did he react to the news that this ethereal creature wasn't selling perfume at Bloomingdale's or working as a dental assistant? When did she get around to telling the boy friend what her true profession was?

It's reassuring to know that our young are not without ambition, that their dreams of the future don't stop with making the pep squad or homecoming queen or the "starting" five, nine or 11.

But a wannabe porn star before the kid's graduated from her training bra?

Well, we live and learn.

Letters policy

The Granite City Press-Record/Journal welcomes letters to the editor. The newspaper provides the "Letters" column to give readers an opportunity to voice opinions on various items of interest.

Letters should be brief, preferably less than 10 paragraphs. Typed letters, or letters that are neatly written, are given priority treatment. Preference is also given to locally originated letters, but letters from outside the area are accepted.

Each letter must be signed and include the telephone number and address of the author. Only the name and city will be printed, but authors may be called for verification purposes.

The Granite City Press-Record/Journal reserves the right to edit letters to conform with the newspaper's standards of style, punctuation, grammar and spelling. Letters containing libel will not be used. The letter's tone or intention will not be changed.

Restructuring of Congress urged

TO THE EDITOR:

The voters are looking for someone else to vote for. Voters want these other unnamed candidates to offer policies which significantly differ from those pursued by current officeholders and challengers.

It is being said around kitchen tables many American homes that current government policies "are not doing the job."

That is why voters are taking an interest in anyone who even seems to have something different to say. Unfortunately, this has translated into support for those making an emotional appeal rather than for those making a reasoned one.

Media tend to focus on strong emotional subjects.

Another group, let us call them gatekeepers of political acceptance and purity, regularly deny voters access to thoughtful candidates who "don't play ball." Gatekeepers will not accept a reasoned approach leading to significant change.

Why? Because appropriate change would mean their giving up privileges and prerogatives. Giving up any position or possession is thought to be unacceptable by a gatekeeper.

The combined effect of media and gatekeeper behavior has been to plant political dynamite. When it goes off, will it destroy families' economic life?

It is simple to see why Americans are on the verge of a political revolution similar to that experienced recently by the people of the Soviet Union.

I was well known by many of the Russian people that their political system was not "delivering the economic goods." But they could not get the old men holding the country on its unproductive course out of the way.

Change had to wait for the country to fall into economic ruin and bankruptcy.

After that, it was easy to convince a majority to try a different course. Their road to success is by no means assured, but at least they are trying.

Here at home, we also have old men in positions of power who are not delivering the economic goods. They will not admit truths which regular people can plainly see.

They say unemployment is high, but under control. But unemployment plus underemployment equal more than 25 percent of the people who want to work.

Soon there will be general recognition that hard times are likely to last for years.

People are going to switch politicians and political direction as fast as they change TV channels. It will be at that moment that television will again come into its role as the national town hall.

People are going to switch politicians and political direction as fast as they change TV channels. It will be at that moment that television will again come into its role as the national town hall.

While this proposal seems to be a fundamental change in political thinking, it is really a means of returning Congressional representation to where voters can again have an effect on legislation which determines their family's economic future.

three-fourths of the state legislatures ratify this new contract. All of this is stated in Article 5 of the current operating contract we call the Constitution.

The founders were wise to recognize that operational details of their contract could not speak to all generations, and so they gave those future generations a legal (constitutional) means of stating for themselves how power will be shared.

The original distribution of representative power was based on where the voter lived. This made great sense at a time when voters lived on their farms or near their factories.

In this way, the voter cast a ballot for a voting representative who would protect farm, factory or store and individual liberties. Today, it is different.

A congressman generally represents all who live in a district despite their economic or social interest. If Congress is to safeguard and truly represent our economic interests, citizens should vote for members of the House (the lower house) based on where they work.

Most people recognize that paid business lobbyists are in Washington trying to influence Congress. Would it not be more democratic for those influences to come from all ranks of business and industry rather than from upper management?

If Congress is to regulate business, the law-givers should have now make good political decisions. From Congress is to regulate businesses are best run. Since most politicians know little about the business they regulate, it would seem much smarter if we changed the process.

Elect representatives based on fit of business. Change the committee system so that legislators become regulators.

A larger and broader-based lower house would be created. This gives customers of government services a specific target group to hold responsible.

The committee will have regulatory authority. The Senate must concur with committee decisions or state in writing why it rejected them.

This method is preferable to congressional generalists who represent to where voters' rights end up hurting a lot of voters. Example: Congress actually changed the law so the savings-and-loan scandal could happen. If they did not understand the outcome, why did they make a law?

The act of voting is the act of hiring. Voters should know what needs doing before hiring someone to do it. There should be a job description and people in that field should generally know the duties and responsibilities of the people they are hiring.

You would not hire a carpenter or an accountant until you knew what that employee was supposed to do. It should be the same for elected representatives.

While this proposal seems to be a fundamental change in political thinking, it is really a means of returning Congressional representation to where voters can again have an effect on legislation which determines their family's economic future.

People generally vote their pocketbooks. Let us trust them.

Praise teachers,

other workers

TO THE EDITOR:

I am happy to hear of Granite City teacher Edward Schroeder's success as a teacher and success as a recipient of being named the Teacher of the Year by the Walt Disney Co.

He deserves the applause and cheers of everyone and the all-expenses-paid trip to Maui for speaking engagements. Perhaps he can instill his enthusiasm for teaching into others. We desperately need more teachers like Schroeder.

Schroeder states that recognition is the secret to having successful educators and that good teachers should be patted on the back and stroked because they need it so much.

It is important to feel appreciated, I agree, not only for teachers but for every worker. Don't forget all the men and women who are forced to work minimum-paying jobs to support their families.

These people are not only mistreated and taken for granted most of the time, but are not rewarded financially like most teachers are.

So, next time someone does a good job, no matter how insignificant it is to you, perhaps a kind word of praise will make this world a better place to live in.

Protect victims'

rights and dignity

TO THE EDITOR:

Our system of justice is based upon the well-founded principle that a criminal suspect is presumed innocent until proven guilty.

Yet for every crime, there is a victim, who is every bit as innocent as we presume the suspect to be; and that victim's rights are every bit as worthy of protection under the Illinois Constitution.

Such protection does not currently exist in an imbalance which I am seeking to redress.

I have proposed for consideration by the General Assembly an amendment to the Illinois Constitution which would set forth a list of rights and protections for the victims of violent crimes.

Those protections would include the right to be treated with fairness and dignity throughout the judicial process, the right to be kept informed about the disposition of the case, the right to make a "personal impact statement" to the court at the time of sentencing, the right to protection from the accused during the judicial process, and the right to restitution.

Volunteers aid animal welfare

TO THE EDITOR:

On behalf of the Madison County Veterinary Association, we would like to applaud the following groups:

1. Adopt-A-Pet.
2. Association for the Protection of Animals, Granite City.
3. Collinsville Humane Society.
4. Five A's Adoption.
5. Highland Humane Society.
6. Madison County Humane Society.
7. Treehouse Wildlife Center Inc.

These groups, comprised mainly of volunteers, provide much-needed assistance to animals of all types.

In spite of the many problems these animals have, such as disease and malnutrition, the volunteers strive to humanely care for and place these animals in loving homes.

We would like to affirm the efforts of each group in promoting animal welfare in our community.

Easter eggs at Wilson Park

Maxine Green

Maxine Green covers the Granite City and Noveborac Township area for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 931-0266.

The annual Easter Egg Hunt for children of pre-school age and first graders will be Saturday in the Wilson Park ice rink, where the eggs will be hidden in straw in the rink. Children are requested to bring their own containers. First grade, kindergarten and pre-school children should report at 9, 9:30 and 10 a.m.

The Madison County Baptist Association group "Saints Alive" met April 6, at the Third Baptist Church, 26th and Grand Ave. Bob Lewis opened the meeting by welcoming members and four newcomers.

Vera Ridgeway, accompanied by Louise Acocks at the piano, led in singing Happy Birthday to seven members and the theme song "Today I Will Be Happy," and "Just When I Need Him Most." Prayer requests were taken and Earl Spalding offered the prayer, followed by another hymn, "Amazing Grace." Reports were read and approved.

Entertainment consisted of talents of some of the members. Kathy Sargent sang "I Was On His Mind." Bob Lewis played several selections on the piano. Vera Ridgeway read a poem written by her aunt. Bill Holloway sang "Key to Heaven." Vera Kirkpatrick gave a reading on the life of Jesus. Earl Spalding gave a reading, "The Three" (See GRANITE, Page 7A)

Lionesses plan Caramel Pop Day

Lucille Martin

Lucille Martin covers the Pontoon Beach scene for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 931-0731.

Lioness will be out for contributions on Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9, but they won't be out for blood. It's all part of Lioness Caramel Pop Day and contributions will be accepted. In return, Lionesses will distribute caramel lollipops. Caramel Pop Day — a basic part of Lioness programs in support of the blind and visually handicapped — will have club members and hundreds of volunteers working in communities across the state. In Pontoon Beach and Granite City, Caramel Pop Day will be held in conjunction with a statewide fund-raising program coordinated by the Lions of Illinois Foundation, Maywood.

"It's almost impossible for sighted and hearing persons to fully comprehend what it's like to be blind or deaf, but you can help through your support of Caramel Pop Day to make the lives of the blind and deaf worthwhile," said Paula Werner, Caramel Pop Day chairperson. News on this event was released jointly by Paula Werner and Lioness president Betty Johnson.

The Lioness Club of Pontoon Beach will hold its ninth annual Easter Egg Hunt on April 18, at the Long Lake Fire Department grounds, 41st and Pontoon Road. Children will be divided into five age groups, with prizes for each group.

An Easter Cantata, "The Wonder Of It All," was presented by the Pontoon Baptist Church Choir Sunday morning, April 12, directed by Rodger Wilson. Choir members participating were Gary Chaney, Ralph Craycraft, Ed Hart, Paul Stayduhar Jr., Barbara, Leslie and Jill Chaney, Kim Wilson, Janita Craycraft, Dee Owens, Ann Rainwater, Lyn Hart, Sylvia Massman and Frances Brake. Gary Chaney was the narrator and solo parts were presented by Kim Wilson, Ralph Craycraft, Roger Wilson and a duet part was rendered by Ed and Lyn Hart.

The Preschool Division and Children's Division are planning a combined Easter Egg Hunt Sunday morning, April 19 at the Pontoon Baptist Church.

Volunteers team up to clean up neighborhood

Even the weather cooperated this year in the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce "Stash Trash" program April 11.

Counting the third graders who entered the coloring contest, the Scouts and the volunteers, chamber executive vice president RC Bush estimated nearly 3,000 people took part in the 13th annual community clean-up.

The volunteers collected 163 cubic yards of garbage and 20 cubic yards of recyclable items that were taken to the Chain of Rocks Recycling and Disposal Facility, said event chairman Greg Mathes, the general manager at Chain of Rocks.

"One of the key things this year was the addition of more recyclable items," Mathes said. "People are more conscious and more aware of recycling and made an effort to separate the trash."

Most of the recyclable items were glass and plastic, Mathes said, and Chain of Rocks made a donation of $50 each to the area Boy Scout and Girl Scout organizations for the recyclable items.

Mathes said credit for a successful campaign should go to the chamber staff rather than the chairman.

"There is really so much work, I think Shirley Bush, and RC too, not only this year but in year's past do an exceptional job. Shirley really is a dedicated person," Mathes said.

RC and Shirley Bush said it is the volunteers and the businesses and organizations that donated to the effort that deserve the credit.

Among the notable efforts were the winners in the "golf classic" (the clean up takes on the premise of a golf tournament for the groups) the Charles Melvin Price Support Center which collected 210 bags and Mitchell Voluntary Fire Department and Auxiliary which collected 161 bags. Belleville Area College, Central Bank and Wal-Mart placed second, third and fourth.

"There are many people I admire. The one person I admire most however, is my grandma. I don't know of any other person who has more patience or shows more love. No matter the situation, she is always there to help out. She also is a very generous person. If there was ever anything I needed, I knew all I had to do was ask, and she'd provide it. She is the one person I hope to be like when I get older. I only hope she knows how much I appreciate her."

Derrick Barefield, Madison
"I respect my grandmother, because she has always been there for me when I needed her and she's a very nice understanding person."

Nina Modlin, Grigsby
"The person I respect the most is a guy I love very much. I respect him for his hard-working ability, character, and patience. With his job, he went from a laborer to the president of the company in just two years! He gets up at 3:45 a.m. and doesn't come home until 7 p.m., from Monday through Saturday. He may be hardworking but that doesn't mean he has a bad attitude. In fact, he is a real funny and a charming guy. I admit that he can be a little aggravating sometimes, but aren't all dad's? I also respect that he has enough patience to handle a job, three teenagers, and to keep a little free time for himself. He is my father, and I love and respect him very much."

Chappelle Gray, Venice
"Basically my mom, because she has an influence on me about how a young lady should be. She's nice, smart, sunny, and kind... except when I get out of hand. The real reason I respect my mother is because whatever she does, she does it right and never gives up."

Cedric Richmond, Madison
"I respect my mother the most because she raised me, loves me, and cares for me all of the time."

David Townsend, Venice
"I respect my mother and father the most. They were the people that gave me a life to live on earth. They were the people that helped me grow-up and they put me in school when I was 5 years old. Now I'm 12, and I'm in 7th grade. They give me what I want and need. I love them and hope nothing happens to them."

Jessica Sealey, Grigsby
"I would have to say that I would respect my mother the most because of the following reasons."

My mother's only a single parent because my father died in 1985 and my mother hasn't re-married. My mother tries to get many different jobs just to support my sister and me.

My mother tries to be a mother, and a father for my sister and me. My mother always tries to help out with my problems, along with my sister's too. What I really appreciate about my mother is that she always wants to do things together as a family, like my father would have.

But, my mother is the kind of person whom you can tell anything and my mother won't repeat a word of it to no one, unless it's really necessary.

So, in many ways I respect my mother the most. So, actually, there's not anyone that I could possibly respect as much as my mother."

Barbara Bailey, Madison
"My parents, because I learn from them and they care for me."

Lakeisha Coburn, Venice
"I respect a lot of people, but I respect my parents and I love them, not only because they are my parents, they are my friends. I can go to them for anything. Any problem that I have I can talk it out with them. In the Bible it says honor thy mother and thy father and that's what I try to do. I also respect God and Jesus above all because I trust in His word."

"The person I respect most is my grandmother. Years ago she raised two of her own kids, now she is raising my brother and me. She cooks dinner every night and it's always done at 5 p.m. If we're sick she's there to take us to the doctor. She tries to let us do what we want if she thinks it's all right. I respect my grandma for a lot of reasons but the number one reason is because she respects me."

Byron Brown, Madison
"I respect my grandfather, because he is brave, smart and kind. He also knows a lot of things about the world, and he also fought in wars. He has taught me many things. I really do respect him."

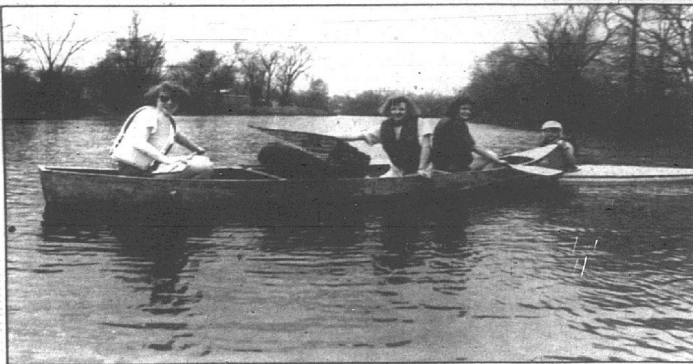

Laquita Watt, Venice
"I respect my mother the most because she brought me into this world. She is raising me and teaching me right from wrong. She guides me through life and helps me understand the things that I don't know."

Eddie Thomas, Madison
"My parents and my friends, because they help me do many things, that are difficult for me to do."

Jacquelyn Hale, Grigsby
"In our community and across the nation, the Shriners are well-known to be a very respectable bunch of people. I'm sure everyone has seen the Shriners Parade going down Madison Avenue every summer and heard about or been to their annual circus. But, does everyone know to where the money from the parades and circuses goes? The money goes to their many treatment centers for needy children. The people who are in the Shriners work, but they don't get any money. They don't get any huge tax write-off. They are not obligated to do anything. Then why do they even join? So they know that they have unselfishly helped a child in need."

Tania Paulette, Venice
"The one I respect the most is my lovely mom. I respect my mom because she pays the bills, she provides food on the table and puts clothes on my back. She takes care of me real good. But the real reason I respect my mom is because whatever a person needs, she tries her best to help them."

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

If you are injured by an intoxicated driver, can you successfully bring an action against the tavern which served the liquor? The Dramshop Act provides a cause of action for those injured by intoxicated drivers against "any person licensed under the laws of this State to sell alcoholic liquor, who by selling or giving alcoholic liquor... causes the intoxication of such person." The legislature of the State of Illinois intended for the Dramshop Act to place the responsibility for damages occasioned by the use of alcohol on those who profit from its sale.

In one recent case, a woman (Dorothy) pulled out of the parking lot of a tavern and collided with another vehicle driven by a woman named Maxine. Maxine and her grandson sustained severe injuries, and Dorothy left the scene of the accident. Dorothy's front license plate was knocked off by the collision, and police used it to trace her as the driver of the car.

The testimony at trial indicated that Dorothy arrived at the tavern approximately three hours before the accident, and that she did not drink any alcoholic beverages before arriving at the tavern. She testified that she had two beers at the tavern and that her last beer was approximately 15 minutes before the accident. When asked whether she was under the influence of alcohol at the time of the collision she answered, "Well, I just drank them two cans. I guess I was."

Despite the testimony as to intoxication, the jury found in favor of the tavern on the claim based on Dramshop liability. The injured parties took the case on appeal. The Appellate Court held that in order for the tavern to be liable to the plaintiff under the Dramshop Act, the jury had to find the following propositions: (1) Dorothy was intoxicated at the time of the accident, (2) the tavern provided intoxicating liquor consumed by Dorothy, (3) the liquor provided by the tavern caused the intoxication of Dorothy, (4) Dorothy's intoxication was at least one cause of the accident, and (5) as a result of the occurrence, the plaintiff suffered injuries.

The Appellate Court held that all of these elements were proven by the testimony at trial. Therefore, the Appellate Court reversed the judgment on the verdict in favor of the tavern and granted judgment in favor of the plaintiffs and against the tavern as to liability under the Dramshop Act.

Extensive safety procedures used in recycling metals

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

Because the Eticam hazardous-wastewater treatment plant in Fernley, Nev., is a working model for a proposed plant in Granite City, city officials toured the plant and observed its operations last week.

Eticam specializes in the treatment of metal-contaminated water. It deals with 10 of the more than 600 chemicals, metals and materials deemed hazardous by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Four metals the plant recycles on a regular basis are copper, chromium, nickel and zinc. It also handles precious metals such as gold, silver and platinum as well as dealing with acids, alkalines, cyanides and other materials. Using a series of chemical treatments, Eticam processes the waste into reusable metals.

Among the industries serviced by Eticam are metal finishing, electroplating, mining and aircraft.

The process begins when customers send a sample and an analysis of the waste they want treated. Eticam plant then performs further lab tests on the sample to determine whether it can be treated by the plant.

"All of what we take in is reusable," said Ben Simmons, Fernley plant president. "That's our characteristic. If it doesn't meet requirements, we don't receive it."

If the waste is found to be suitable, Eticam coordinates a date and time for a truck to ship the waste to the plant.

According to Byron Bradd, general manager at Fernley, the plant handles an average of three trucks a day and sometimes has days with no trucks scheduled.

Although the plant has the facilities to handle two trucks at a time, each within a bay area with dikes to separate spill contaminants, Bradd said the plant attempts to schedule only one truck at a time.

When a truck arrives, another sample of the waste is taken and analyzed. Only after it is confirmed to be usable is the truck allowed into the enclosed unloading garage, Bradd said.

In the unloading area, the driveway is cupped so that, in the event of a spill, the waste would be filtered into an underground holding tank, separate from all other tanks. Bradd said that none of the waste escapes onto the plant grounds.

"They don't have trucks running in and out of the plant," Bradd said. Granite City economic development director, "They have separate areas for everything. All of the areas are bermed and they have a drainage system that's separated."

Throughout the tour, there were many safety precautions that we saw.

Inside the plant, the wastewater is treated with chemicals. As an example, a lab technician said, copper is drawn out of a liquid by adding sulfuric acid and sodium hydroxide. This creates copper hydroxide and a sodium sulfate form of salt.

Hydrochloric acid is combined with the excess sulfuric acid to create sodium chloride salt and water. The saltwater is evaporated off as steam. The next step is to further dry the metal sludge, containing copper and other metals. This is done by chemical evaporation.

"When we first opened, people dumped liquid wastes right out the open," Bradd said. "We're now seeing less and less of the liquid."

"Companies can ship sludge to us and we can recover the metals. Metal sludge is listed as a hazardous waste if we ship it out to a landfill. But when we treat it, it's 1,000, (even) 1,000,000 times less hazardous than it used to be."

The leftover metal is then shipped to a smelting operation where it can be reused.

The extra liquid waste that lingers from the original wastewater is stored in large concrete holding tanks inside the plant. The Fernley plant has about 25 of these tanks separated by thick concrete walls. The pipes from the tanks are built so that the chemicals cannot mix.

"There aren't any cross-connections between the pipes, and the floor is made of thick concrete. (The concrete vat) was built to sustain earthquakes and the weight of the tanks."

We have scrubbers running that clean up any kind of emission. We use heavy-duty PVC pipe, which is located in the containment area. We haven't had a PVC pipe problem yet."

If cyanide and an acid were to accidentally mix in small portions, it could create a cyanide-hydrogen gas, Bradd said. But he said the amount would be so small that a worker "could breathe it eight hours a day in a 40-hour work week and it wouldn't affect him."

Bradd said the safety system installed at the Fernley plant, and to be improved upon at the Granite City plant, is "fail-safe."

He said there is an elaborate alarm system linked to every section of the plant and that the system monitors the amount of pollutants in the air and sounds a warning if chemical air pollutants reach a level considered hazardous by the EPA.

If that happened, Bradd said, a scrubber system is activated and the scrubbers literally scrub the air and collect the pollutants.

"When we first opened, our read-out machines kept sounding the alarm. It cost $10,000 to end up paying a $10,000 fine for that. We've spent over $100,000 improving that (system) and buying new machines."

"We're seeing less and less of the cyanide nowadays. Our plant holds about 10 percent cyanide. I don't see much of that coming to Granite City because we mostly get it from mining companies and the military out here."

Even in the worst-case scenario, Bradd said, if there is a crash that destroys the building, destroys all of the tanks and mixes all of the chemicals, Bradd said the danger would be limited to within 2,000 feet of the plant. "But even at 1,500 feet, you might see some."

"You would have to have a 10,000-gallon tank and have 4,000 gallons of cyanide and acid combine. We don't have a 10,000-gallon tank on the premises. But the EPA makes us consider before we can get permission to build."

"If you knock a bottle of bleach and ammonia off the shelf in your kitchen then you have a dangerous chemical," he said.

"The chemicals are apparently much safer in the waste phase than in either the use or manufacturing phase."

"Through the processing operation a 100 percent concentration of copper waste — which if kept in a landfill would be labeled as hazardous — is broken down to an acid or cyanide concentration of 5 percent and the other 95 percent is water and metal."

"The production and use phases aren't as monitored as much as the waste phase," Ortbals said. "That should be the other way around because the larger concentration is in the first two phases."

Fernley residents depend on wells for their water like some of the residents in Granite City. Eticam has taken extra precautions to ensure they do not contaminate the water supply, Cruse said.

"I know that the people on Rock Road are concerned about water contamination, and I don't blame them," Cruse said. "Not this waste goes into the soil. If there was a spill on the site, it wouldn't get into the soil."

Erin Henry, a freelance writer for the Press-Record, also went on the Eticam tour. Eticam paid the expenses of the trip for Henry and the Granite City group.

11 going to state young authors conference

Eleven young authors from Granite City Community Unit School District 9 will represent the district at Illinois' 18th state-wide Young Authors Conference May 16, at Illinois State University in Normal.

The conference will emphasize language as a vehicle of communication with others.

The Young Authors representatives are Laura Canada, Brynn Elias, Sarah Fielding, Hannah Kampfoefer, Stephanie Kohl, Carly Lasiter, Scott Mills, Salina Morlen, Shelly Pulaski, Deidre Rosenberg and Emily Vaughn.

Family and friends who accompany the representatives are invited to a special group meeting, from 10 to 11:30 a.m., where they can gain further insights into students' writings. At 1:30 p.m., they will join the Young Authors representatives at the awards recognition.

Young Authors is sponsored by the Illinois State Board of Education and the Illinois Whole Language Council.

The purpose of the conference is to support teachers in their efforts to improve students' writing and reading abilities.

Students also will be honored at Superintendent Awards Ceremonies

When engaged in the process of authoring, a spokesman said, students are involved in the interrelationship of writing, reading, listening and sharing. All children in grades kindergarten through eighth grade, including those in special programs, are encouraged to participate in Young Authors.

This year, 101 manuscripts were submitted by K-to-8 students in the district. A team of 40 judges, composed of teachers, students and parents, read and rated the manuscripts.

Eleven manuscripts were chosen to represent the district, at least one from each level — primary, intermediate, and junior high.

This year, the coordinators of Young Authors for the Granite City district are Goni Michaeloff, the schools' grant writer, and Betty Nghoghossian, principal of Maryville School.

Young Authors representatives will also be honored by the district at the Superintendent's Award Ceremonies on April 22 (Niedringhaus), April 22 (Prather and Marshall), April 29 (Maryville and Wilson). Junior high Young Authors representatives will attend a May 6 Award ceremony. Central Bank will again sponsor Young Authors, paying the $20 per student registration fee to the state conference and also purchasing certificates, frames and award trophies.

Bridal shower held at church

The fellowship hall of Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., was the scene of a bridal shower March 22 honoring Amy Hester, daughter of Lynn and Faye Hester of Granite City. The shower was hosted by several family friends.

Games were played and light refreshments were served. The honoree then opened her gifts, assisted by Ami Brooks and Emily Bridges, two of her bridesmaids.

Attending were Wilma Parker, Terri DeLoche, Shirley Wueblich, Agnes Kern, Sheryl Millikin, Elva Jean Logan, Norma Petty, Mary Ann Gambin, Lorene Pare, Evelyn Thompson, Lisa Hillmer, Peggy Jones, Lenore Welty, Ruby Williams, Sue Burkhardt, Wanda Carmack, Debbie Cox, Julie Cox, Linda Brooks, Marilyn Pugh, Virginia Bridges, who is the honoree's grandmother, Faye Hester, the honoree's mother, and Georgia Fisher, mother of the prospective groom.

Miss Hester was also guest of honor at a bridal shower given by her aunts, Linda Bridges, Betty Carbaugh and Sandy Ousley, on April 12.

The fellowship hall of Calvary Baptist Church, 3000 Washington Ave., was decorated in keeping with the colors to be used in the wedding.

Following a luncheon, the honoree opened her gifts, assisted by two of her three bridesmaids, Lori Davidson of Collinsville and Emily Bridges, her cousin. Also in attendance were Mesdames Ida Weiss, Loretta Rakowski, Pat Lynn, Agnes Kern, Maurine Lewis, Maggie Williams, Brownie Ricks, Marty Bridges, Geraldine Lacey and Marjorie Hester, Misses Kathleen Rakowski, Angie Bridges and Kerri Ann Ousley, Mrs. Virginia Bridges, grandmother of the honoree, and Mrs. Faye Hester, mother of the honoree.

Out-of-town guests included Mesdames Gloria Joyce of Metropolis, Nola Gorrell of Washington, Mo., Glenda Hester of Burlington, Sherry Davies of Oak Park near Chicago, Sue Cobb and daughter, Sarah, of Harvester, Mo., Mary Kern of Fenton, Mo., and Georgia Fisher, mother of the prospective groom, of Greenville.

Amy Hester will become the bride of Kevin Fisher in May at the First Congregational Church in Highland. Fisher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fisher of Greenville.

Bluegrass Baker GCHS diver signs with UK

Just color Jenny Baker's swimsuit blue for the next four years.

But it won't be the Carolina blue she was originally leaning towards. Instead, it will be the Blue (grass) of the Kentucky Wildcats.

The Granite City High School senior signed her letter of intent Wednesday to receive an NCAA Division I diving scholarship from the University of Kentucky in Lexington. Baker hopes to continue a diving career which was on a constant upward spiral in four years of high school competition.

"It's really beautiful down there," Baker said Wednesday morning, not long after she had made her final decision. "I went

The Twin Towers of the Steel City will stand together on the basketball court for four more years.

Brian Smith signed his letter of intent Wednesday to play college basketball at Valparaiso (Ind.) University, maintaining a partnership with twin brother Jeff. Jeff Smith signed with Valparaiso during the NCAA's early signing period in November.

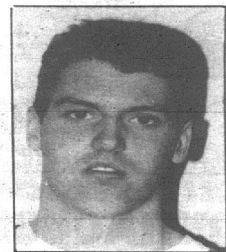

"Coach (Homer) Drew came to see me at the Taylorville game (March 4)," said Brian Smith. "I was thinking of going to Valparaiso the whole time, but that was the night I made my decision."

Brian averaged 12 points and Rain forced the Warrior baseball team to put off its Southwestern Conference opener for five days. But they still weren't ready Tuesday.

Granite City came out flat and was beaten 5-0 by Belleville East in the first game of a double-header at Varsity Field. Junior Ben Hicks struck out nine in beating the Lancers 4-1 to salvage a split, but the opener is the one that counts in the SWC standings.

East is 5-5 overall and 1-1 in the SWC. The Warriors are 6-2, 0-1.

"We just weren't ready to play in the first game," said Warrior coach Bob Stegemeier. "Year after year, East plays smart baseball, and you have to be ready to play smart to beat them. I guess I have to take some of the blame for not having them ready."

The Warriors lost two runners on the bases in the fourth and were victimized by a double steal for the Lancers' first run. Drake Marshall kept the Warriors in it for 5½ innings, but East scored four runs after two were out in the sixth to break it open. Marshall (1-2) struck out the first two and had two strikes on Lonnie Eiskant before hitting him. Three straight RBI hits followed.

Bill Phillips (2-0) pitched the five-hit shutout for East. "I really don't know if hitting that man caused Drake to lose his concentration," said Stegemeier. "I know East was sitting on his fastball. He didn't have control of his curve all night, and he doesn't throw hard enough to get by just on the fastball."

The Lancers scored an unearned run in the third. A walk and an error had runners at first and third with two outs. Marshall pitched out as Chad Gray broke for second. But catcher Jeff Luffman's throw wasn't good and Chad Karfs came home from third with one of his three stolen bases.

"Running is not one of our strong points, but we had to do something there with the way Marshall was pitching early," said Lancer coach Larry Patton.

Meanwhile, the Warriors left a man at third in the second. Marc Patton was out stealing on a missed hit-and-run in the third. Luffman was picked off first base to end that inning, and Luffman filed out on the first pitch with the bases loaded and two outs in the sixth.

"Not having played since last Wednesday didn't help, but we have to be ready all the time," said Stegemeier. "We sure didn't make them field many ground

Second game: Hicks gained the split by scattering eight hits and walking only one as he improved to 2-0. The Lancers loaded the bases with one out in the seventh, but Hicks fanned Joe Stines and Eiskant to end it.
"Ben had pretty good command of his pitches the whole way," said Stegemeier. "Even at the end he was getting ahead of everyone. And the hits they had were mostly tricklers. Larry played to win that game. He didn't start his No. 1 guys, but they all came back in to pinch-hit at the end."

Marshall picks baseball at SMSU

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

Drake Marshall competes like a bear protecting cubs. He officially becomes a Bear next year. Marshall has verbally committed to play baseball at Southwest Missouri State, and is expected to sign his letter of intent Friday morning at Granite City High School gym.

"I wanted to play two sports, but that's a lot harder to do in college," said Marshall, who is proficient enough to play at some level of college in three sports. "They're paying my scholarship for baseball, so that's what I'll do."

Marshall wanted to play football and baseball, if possible. He has been an all-conference and all-area player in all those sports as well as basketball the last two years. He was the Warrior quarterback last fall as Granite City went 8-2 and made the playoffs. He was also their top defensive back and tied a state record with 14 interceptions as a junior safety at Belleville Althoff in 1990.

He was a first-team all-SWC sport for me," said Marshall. "I heard from Missouri, Nebraska, Northwestern and a lot of small schools in football, Illinois, Wichita State, Creighton and a lot of small schools sent me stuff in baseball. St. Louis U. called me, but I never had time to get over there. I've gone to four camps (Cubs, Rangers, Padres, A's) and heard from the Colorado Rockies."

Marshall, who didn't hear from any schools for basketball, said he liked the campus and the players at SMSU in Springfield, Mo.

"They play good baseball down there," he said. "They almost made it to the College World Series last year. They lost five pitchers in the draft and have a lot of younger pitchers. I should get a good chance, and I can play on the infield when I'm not pitching."

The SMSU coach is Keith Gutten. He compiled a 300-112 record in his first eight years, and the Bears are 20-12 so far this season. Gutten is from University City, Mo., and played

Trojanettes win, Trojans 3rd

In the first home meet of the season, the Trojanette track team won a quad meet Monday while the Trojans placed third.

The girls piled up 81 points to win going away over Althoff (38), Lebanon (52) and Gateway Christian (40). Lebanon won the boys meet with 94½ points, and Althoff was next with 59½. Madison was third with 57 and Gateway Christian had 15.

Junior Yukeitha Gardner, the defending state 100 meters champion, ran in her first meet of the season after being injured in a traffic accident last month. She ran the second leg of the 800 medley (2:05) and 400 relay (52.5) teams, and the Trojanettes won both events.

"I want to bring Yukeitha along slowly," said coach Gene Briggs. "Putting her on the second leg of a relay takes away a lot of the pressure."

Joining Gardner on the 800 medley were Tiffany Taylor, Latrisa Swift and Latasha Montgomery. Joining her on the 400 relay were Taylor, Swift and Jackie Newby. The 800 relay also won in a time of 1:37. Other wins came from Newby in the 100 meters (13.2) and long jump (15-11). The Trojanettes also earned seven seconds and five thirds. They aren't scheduled to run another varsity meet until the Greenville Relays on April 24. The boys got another triple gold performance from Alphonso Brandon, who won the 400 meters (56.18), long jump (20-2½) and triple jump (37-5½). The Trojans also took the 400 relay (47.01) and got seconds from Cartemus London in the 110 high hurdles (24.1) and the 300 low hurdles (45.9); Jason Jones in the high jump (5-10) and Derrick Hall in the shot put (40-1).

The boys run in Collinsville on Monday.

7.5 rebounds as a senior while earning second-team all-conference honors. Those numbers were down from his junior year thanks mainly to a knee injury he suffered against Chicago King on Dec. 7. Brian never missed a game, but the torn cartilage bothered him all year and he was to have surgery today.

"That held me back quite a bit," said Brian. "I didn't have anywhere near the season I expected to have. It was always there every game."

"I was supposed to have the surgery April 2, but I had bronchitis and had to delay it. I'm anxious to get it over with."

Valparaiso finished at the bottom of the Association of Mid-Continent Universities this year and is looking to rebuild the program. Suffice to say there should be plenty of opportunities for two 6-9 freshmen to make an impact.

Drew just completed his fourth year at Valparaiso.

"Coach said Jeff will get to play in the middle and I'll be on a wing," said Brian. "Jeff and I never said we had to go to the same college, but this will make things a lot easier on our parents to come see us play together."

The AMCU includes Western Illinois and Eastern Illinois, as well as the University of Illinois-Chicago, so the twins will return to their home state often.

"I'm not sure what the rest of the schedule is like, but I know one of the big games every year is Notre Dame," said Brian.

of their chances against Lancer starter Stu Rosencranz. Marshall singled, stole second and scored on Bill Herman's hit in the first. Designated hitter John Timon drove in another run with an infield out in the second. Billy Van Buskirk tripled and scored on a passed ball in the fourth. Then sophomore Chad Dooley singled home Herman in the fifth. Herman was 2 for 3.

"Bill swings the bat real well," said Stegemeier. "And Dooley has earned a starting spot. He just looks like a hitter."

college ball at Mineral Area Junior College and SMSU. He was an all-Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association second baseman in 1977.

He managed the Creve Coeur (Mo.) American Legion program for three years before becoming an assistant to SMSU coach Bill Roe in 1978. Roe is now the athletic director at SMSU. Paul Evans of Granite City is Gutten's assistant coach.

According to NCAA rules, Gutten can't comment on Marshall until the letter of intent is signed.

"I hope Drake can play there," said GCHS coach Bob Stegemeier. "As a high school player, he hasn't consistently played to his potential. But if he plays like he did last summer (in Legion ball), he has a very good chance to play a lot. Southwest Missouri has a very good program and it's a good opportunity."

•Baker

down there two months ago on my official visit, then we went down again on our own one more time."

If performance translates into coaching success, Baker will have some terrific coaching at UK. The women's diving coach is Milton Braga, a native of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. He was the unbeaten South American champion from 1974 to 1980 and competed on the Brazilian Olympic team in 1976 and 1980. He placed fifth in the 10-meter platform at the 1980 Moscow Olympics.

"He's a man of few words on the phone," said Baker. "I called him today to tell him I was coming to Kentucky. He just said 'fine,' and said he would send the papers out. But he's really a good coach."

Braga is in his third year at UK, although this past season was his first as head coach. The Wildcats were 7-3 in dual meets this year.

"Most schools have three female divers, but we might have as many as five next year," said Gary Connelly, the swimming coach at UK. "There is one other girl we're looking to sign, but Jenny is the jewel of the incoming freshman class."

Baker was a three-time IHSA sectional champion and competed in the state finals all four years of high school. She placed 30th as a freshman, seventh as a sophomore, third as a junior and second this year. She came within less than two points of unseating prohibitive favorite Carrie Zarze of Rockford Auburn as the state champ last Nov. 23.

"I'm glad it's over," Baker said of her decision. "I just got back from a spring break trip to Florida, and I tried not to think about it too much down there."

The recruiting process might not be as hectic for a diver as for a top football or basketball player, but Baker got attention from all over. Division I schools interested included North Carolina, Iowa, Illinois and Clemson. She appeared to be leaning towards UNC last fall.

"The coach there resigned, and that kind of changed things," said Baker.

Iowa was the other finalist right up until Wednesday. "I liked everything there," she said. "I need to call the Iowa coach right away and tell him."

The college swimming and diving season starts in the fall and continues right up through March. As a member of the Southeastern Conference, Kentucky competes against traditional powers such as Auburn and LSU.

"NCAA rules don't let us do anything formal in the off-season, but most of our athletes are well aware of the need to keep training from now until the season starts," said Connelly.

Baker will compete in Clayton, Mo., this summer and continue her Junior Olympic endeavors. She has a 5.1 grade point average and an ACT score of 25. She plans to major in business or communications at UK.

Counseling services available

LifeCycle Counseling in Granite City is offering marriage, family and individual counseling. It is the only private service of its kind in this area.

LifeCycle Counseling is located at 1506 Johnson Road, at the corner of Nameoki Road, in the Sam Wolf building.

Owner Diane Larson-Demetrius specializes in work with couples and families, children and adolescents.

Family counseling can focus on numerous issues, including such life cycle transitions as entry into adulthood and leaving the parental household, rearing of young children and adjustment to new members entering the system, and relationship realignment in remarried and blended families.

In addition, Larson-Demetrius counsels individuals in such areas as depression, eating disorders and bereavement. Day or evening appointments may be scheduled by calling 451-2000.

LifeCycle is offering an ongoing support group for the parents of teenagers. The Parents of Teens group meets on Saturdays at 3 p.m. The group held its first meeting on April 11.

The group will meet in six-week sessions at a cost of $5 per person per meeting. The meetings will offer both an educational and peer support group component. Preregistration is required and more information about the program is available by calling 451-2000.

Larson-Demetrius graduated from the master's program in counseling at Southern Illinois University in 1980 and entered the doctoral program in counseling at St. Louis University.

Her counseling experience began with geriatric populations, continued through the counseling of disabled populations, and extended to work with families, children and adolescents.

Diane Larson-Demetrius offers marriage, family and individual counseling in a unique new business.

Bi-State: Administration pays off

A year after bringing Bi-State's claims administration in-house, the development agency reports the move has resulted in cost-savings beyond projections.

The change also has improved the agency's customer service efforts, said Jack Leary, executive director of Bi-State. Among other activities, the agency operates the Bi-State Transit System.

With claims services now part of the Bi-State Agency staff's duties, there has been more direct contact with that part of the customer base. Leary said injured passengers and injured workers are normally contacted within 24 hours.

The 12-person Claims Administration Unit, established in November 1990, is charged with the responsibility of investigating and processing claims made by customers or members of the general public for property damage or bodily injury arising out of an accident.

Actual savings during the first year totaled $194,500.

Mecava earns performance award

Michael L. Mecava of Granite City has received an Outstanding Performance/Performance Award from the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center.

This award is given to Aerospace Center employees for consistently exceeding the standard of performance for their position. It is awarded after an evaluation of the individual's performance during the previous 12 months.

Located in St. Louis, the center provides worldwide mapping support for the Department of Defense. Its aerospace products are used in flights of all military aircraft, training in aircraft simulators, missile guidance systems and manned space missions.
